

Papua New Guinea

Classic Goroka Show Tour

Trip Review and Photos by Sistie Moffit

I've been in the Amazon jungles and swam with piranhas, I've paddled the Zambizi River with the hippos and crocodiles up close and personal, I've scuba-dived in caves and dropped my weight belt when I've run out of air, I've danced to the beat of the Carnival drums in Rio, and I've hung out with the Beatles. But I've never felt such excitement as I did standing in the middle of the spectacular Goroka Sing Sing in Papua New Guinea! What a wild and breathtakingly exotic adventure! Ninety-one tribes, and they all WANT you to take their picture. For anyone into photography, this is a utopia!

Papua New Guinea is about as "other world" as any place could be. Friendly people, a fascinating primitive culture, stunning village carvings, beautiful tropical lodges (no mud huts!), lots of delicious food... you might say I loved every minute! Thank you, JOURNEYS, for an experience I will never ever forget.
